IMUA 2019 Slate Of Officers & Board Members Elected At 89th Annual Meeting

New York, NJ -- May 29, 2019 – Underwriters, brokers, claims personnel and key industry suppliers met mid-month to discuss some of the most pressing issues of concern to the inland marine industry for the upcoming year and beyond. The event was the 89th Inland Marine Underwriters Association (IMUA) Annual Meeting held May 19-22 at the Lansdowne Inn in historic Leesburg, VA.

The first order of business was the announcement of the approval of the election results for the 2019 slate of officers. Bruce Jervis, Chubb, was elected the association's Chairman. Also elected were Jessica Frankovich, Deputy Chair and Anthony Falcone, One Beacon, Vice Chair.

Commenting on his acceptance Bruce Jervis praised the work of the IMUA and its continuing commitment to advancing the goals of the inland marine industry. He said, "It is my pleasure to lead IMUA to the next step of association effectiveness. We are focused on delivering outstanding professional development opportunities, including our new eLearning initiative and increasing IMUA's visibility and reach within the insurance industry."

Bruce then recognized the hard work and dedication of the Board of Directors and the IMUA staff. He noted, "I also want to recognize the incredible efforts of the IMUA staff who continually push us to become a better organization."

Also announced was the election of the slate of Board of Directors. They are:
